2ND AMITY NATIONAL FACULTY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

ON CONTEMPORARY CHANGING DIMENSION OF LAW IN INDIA WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO COVID-19 (ONLINE)

The changing dynamics of social, cultural, political, legal, and economic aspects of human life need public discourse especially in India where the societal matrix is complex and wired with conundrums of its own. The immediate pre-Covid Era in India witnessed protracted legal battles culminating such as the Ayodhya dispute, ushered in a new stage for vocalisation of LGBTQ communities, encouraged extensive discourse on the delicate balance of fundamental rights and religious freedoms as evident from the Sabarimala Judgment, and increased impetus on strengthening of Indian diplomacy in the fields of defence and commerce. Back then, these issues were affected and determined on the basis of the extant factors known to each and everyone us. However, post-Covid Era has ushered in a dramatic change in how we would handle the intricacies of Indian society. This is palpable in the newer problems emerging in the form of, inter alia, rising familial disputes, concerns over human rights of migrants, implication of shutting down religious institutions, fear of an unparalleled recession, heightened awareness about public hygiene, and significant restriction on the activities of the citizens in the form of lockdown.

The nearly apocalyptic nature of COVID-19 has forced human population across the globe to be on the back foot. Within a span of a handful of months, human agencies of all kinds and degrees have been compelled to overhaul their ideological and institutional perspectives and infrastructure to offer a robust and educative response to this pandemic. Educational institutions have been at the forefront in the adaption of changes so as to ensure that holistic intellectual development is not thwarted even when the entire human society has come to a standstill. Without public discourse and a development-friendly inclination, the society will lump into stagnation-and Amity University, Lucknow Campus, is a part of the global initiative to ensure that the same is prevented, and the spark remains alive.

We welcome you to the 2nd National Amity Faculty Development Program (FDP) being conducted online and organized on the theme "Contemporary Changing Dimension of Law in India with Special Reference to COVID-19". The aim of this program is to deliberate on the serious issues of law and changing dimension of law in India, especially in the context of this pandemic. During the lockdown, online faculty development program has many potential benefits for faculties, law professionals and research scholars. Its greatest potential benefit is the improvement of student learning, as is the case for all forms of high-quality professional development.
